

MARIAM OMAR

BIOGRAPHY

Mariam is a researcher with interest in sexual and reproductive health, gender-based violence and public health and nutrition. She obtained her Msc degree from University College London UK in Clinical and Public Health Nutrition and Bsc in Public Health Nutrition from University of Benghazi, Libya. Ms. Omar has worked in the humanitarian field during the civil war in Libya including managing UNFPA's office and projects in East Libya. She is currently a Research Associate at SAWI, Telfer School of Management, a PhD candidate in Population Health at University of Ottawa Canada and an Editorial Assistant at Perspectives on Sexual and Reproductive Health.